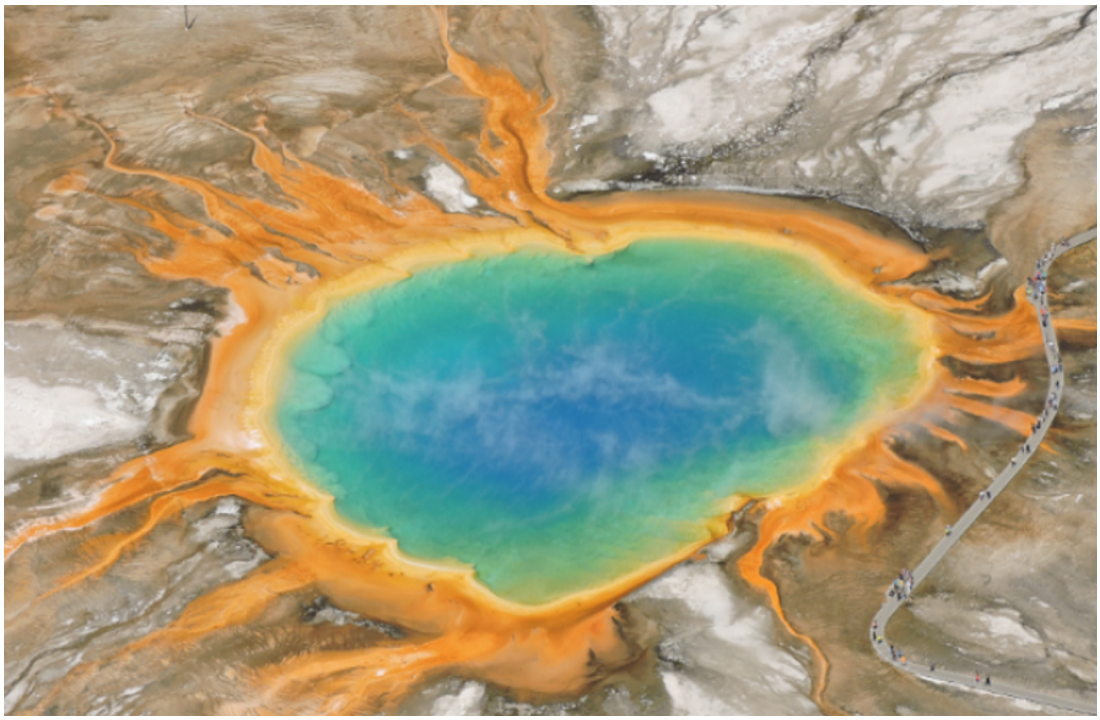
THE GRAND PRISMATIC SPRING OF YELLOWSTONE



There are places in our world so staggeringly beautiful you have to see them to believe they exist. Yet those people walking along the foot bridge can't see what you're looking at. That has to be in the air, hovering from high above in a helicopter. We live in a world of such beauty it really does take your breath away. (Glimpses of Our Breathtaking World #2 photo ©Jack Wheeler)