HALF-FULL REPORT 11/27/15

Here's the scene. The villain total jerk bad guy steps up unprovoked and without warning slaps Clint Eastwood right in the face, challenging him to do something about it. What do you think happens next?

In the movie, we'd know. But this has happened for real. In a major drama of real-life history, the toughest guy on the planet who has for years carefully cultivated his macho bulging biceps image as someone you absolutely don't want to screw with has been challenged straight up, contemptuously and murderously so.

What is Vladimir Putin going to do about it?

On Tuesday (11/24), Turkish F-16s without warning or provocation shot down a Russian SU-24 strike bomber on the Syrian-Turkish border. Both the pilot and navigator parachuted out, with the former killed by Syrian Turkmen guerrillas and the latter rescued.

Konstantin Murakhtin, the rescued navigator, noted that the common procedure would be for the Turkish jets to fly alongside an incursion aircraft with a warning – instead the Russian plane, which he insisted remained in Syrian airspace, was simply shot down by a missile from behind.

Yesterday, Turkey's leader Recep Erdogan refused to apologize for the incident or offer compensation to the family of the murdered pilot – murdered by Alwiya al-Ashar Turkmen in Syria directly supported by Erdogan. Further, he angrily denied Putin's accusation that Turkey was buying ISIS oil, calling it "slanderous."

Erdogan (air-doh-wan) is of course, lying through his teeth. For a long time now, TTP has been explaining how he is the principal supporter of ISIS. Last June for example, in Reagan and ISIS:

"Every guerrilla movement needs a neighboring country willing to give them a sanctuary, providing them access to the outside world – especially one landlocked and surrounded by enemy neighbors: Baghdad, Riyadh, Amman, Damascus. The glaring exception providing sponsorship, support, sanctuary, plus physical and financial access to the world is Ankara. President Recip Erdogan and his government in Turkey make ISIS possible."

Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov made this clear on Wednesday (11/25), noting that "the terrorist infrastructure, arms and munitions depots and control centers" of ISIS are located across Syria's border in Turkey.

Later that day in a Moscow press conference with French President Hollande, Putin declared, "Commercial-scale oil smuggling from Islamic State controlled territory into Turkey must be stopped… It's a living oil pipe, vehicles, carrying oil, lined up in a chain going beyond the horizon, going to Turkey loaded and coming back empty."

Erdogan's denial of this is laughably egregious because his son, Necmettin Bilal Erdogan, is running the ISIS oil smuggling business.

While smuggling arms and providing Turkish sanctuaries for ISIS is run by Erdogan's intelligence agency MIT (Millî ?stihbarat Te?kilat?), Bilal rakes in scores of millions safely transporting oil from ISIS' captured Mosul oil fields in northern Iraq into Turkey paying $15 a barrel and selling it to clandestine buyers for $30.

Thus Putin and Hollande announced a joint all-out effort of their militaries to wipe out all of ISIS' "oil trucks, refineries, and oil storage facilities" in Iraq and Syria. And Allah help any Turkish fighter pilots who get in their way.

It's more than Putin's macho image at stake here. For background perspective, consider how inflammatory is Zero's insistence we admit hundreds of thousands of Moslem "refugees" into our country. Even given this, Pew Research estimates that the total Moslem population in the US is less than 1% (0.9%) or less than 3 million out of 320 million (2.8 million).

(Projections of this expanding to many millions more are worse than useless, for the next president could call a halt to such immigration and cut off welfare benefits to these phony "refugees," encouraging them to return to their Islamic homelands.)

Now consider this. Instead of there being less than 3 million Moslems living in America, what if there were 48 million?

That's what Russia has as a percentage of its population: some 20 million Moslems or 15% of its total of 140 million. What's more, Moslem women in Russia are having a lot more babies than Russian women, whose favorite method of birth control is abortion.

You've seen pictures of hordes of Moslem men clogging up side streets of Paris in prayer. What about 60,000 prostrated in front of the golden-domed Sobornaya mosque in Moscow?

That's a row of Russian security police in the middle of the horde. Moscow is now Europe's largest Moslem city, with over 2 million Moslems out of a total of 12.5 million.

Is it any wonder that Putin is going after ISIS with hammer and tongs, given that ISIS fanaticism spreading among Russia's Moslem millions keeps him up at night in a cold sweat?

One bottom line in this Erdogan vs. Putin crisis is it's an opportunity to render Putin's Russia a non-enemy. As in, "The enemy of my enemy is my friend."

In the fight against ISIS, we need to be on Putin's side, just as we need to be on the Kurds'. That means being against Erdogan, The Islamist Fox in Europe's Henhouse as TTP described him a month ago. That means suspending Turkey's membership in NATO until Erdogan is gone and Turkey stops being an Islamofascist dictatorship.

It also means recognizing that Marco Rubio is a dangerously amateurish idiot for saying "the US should defend Turkey as a fellow NATO member if attacked by Russia." This highlights Dave Goldman's observation in TTP yesterday that Rubio reminds everyone of a movie tough-guy hero's cute younger brother.

Zero is of course on Erdogan's side, not just because he hates Putin for holding him in contempt, but as Dan Greenfield explains in TTP Wednesday (11/25), Obama Wants to Defeat America, not ISIS.

Any doubt of that was removed yesterday when, in his Presidential Thanksgiving Message to America he compared the Moslem invasion of the US he is promoting to the Mayflower Pilgrims.

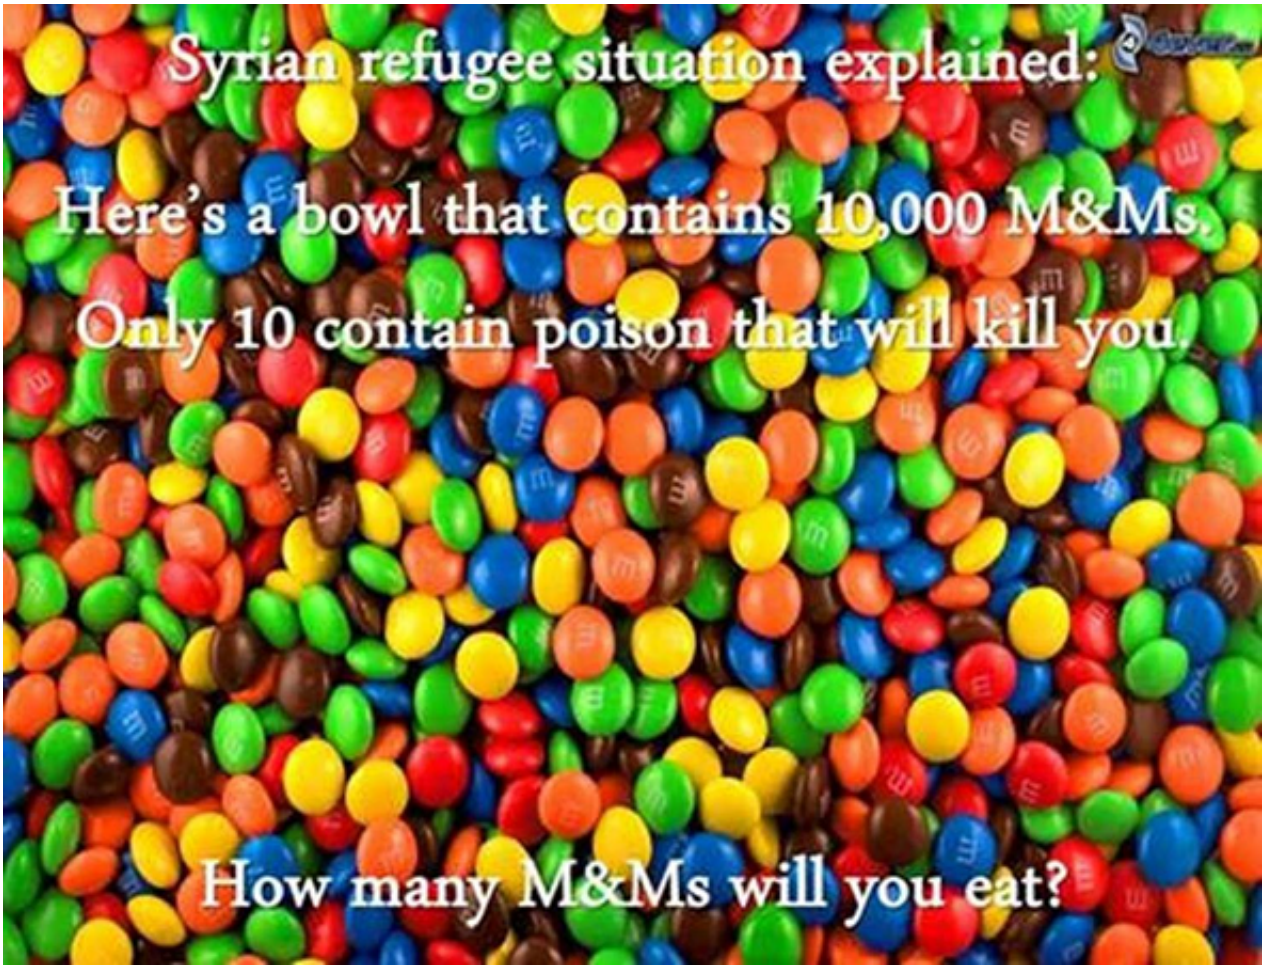
Here is the appropriate question to ask of him and his supporters:



Meanwhile, earlier in the week (11/22), the WashTimes reported Illegal Immigrants Surge Across Border at Record Rate.

Congressman Duncan Hunter (R-CA) is quoted: "The greatest existential threat to this nation right now is this administration's open-border policy." What Hunter is saying is undeniably true, i.e., that President Barack Hussein Obama is overtly on purpose creating the greatest existential national security threat to America.

It follows then that it is Hunter's patriotic duty to call for Zero's impeachment on the floor of Congress on the basis of treason and/or mental incompetence via the 25th Amendment.

Obvious evidence for the latter came Tuesday (11/24), when Zero claimed that the Paris meeting on Climate Change next week would help defeat ISIS. Yep, no doubt about it, he's nuts, fascist nuts.

Marc Thiessen at the WaPo (11/23) has a helpful suggestion that would solve the Syrian "Refugee" Crisis: The Clinton Solution for Refugees.

Marc notes that Bill Clinton inherited a huge refugee crisis upon entering the White House in 1993. A military coup in Haiti resulted in a flood of Haitians trying to reach the US in leaky boats. Bush I blocked the exodus and Clinton said he would continue blocking. One main reason – a good many of the Haitian "refugees" had AIDs.

So where to put them? Not wanting to send them back to persecution in Haiti, Clinton – be ready for it – sent tens of thousands of Haitians to Guantanamo. Yes, Gitmo. In 1994, Clinton ordered US military support for a counter-coup restoring the overthrown leader, Aristide, to power – whereupon he had all those Haitians held in Gitmo returned to Haiti. None were let in as "refugees" or "modern day Mayflower Pilgrims" to the US.

So Marc's right – the Clinton Solution is to send all these Moslem refugees to Gitmo, and keep them there until they can return to a safe and sound Putin-stabilized Syria or wherever else in the Middle East that was their home. The HFR can hardly wait for Hillary to propose it.

The most heartwarming fully-satisfying news story of the week is that the State Department has officially put in writing that Zero's deal with Iran is "not legally binding" in any way.

In a Nov. 19 letter to Congressman Mike Pompeo (R-KS), Julia Frifield, the State Department assistant secretary for legislative affairs, wrote: "The Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA) is not a treaty or an executive agreement, and is not a signed document."

This turkey is cooked.

The most absolutely pathetically hilarious story of the week comes from the WaPo: On Eve of Paris Summit, Britain Pulls Plug on Renewables.

You'll have tears of unbearable sadness and grief streaming down your face as you read that Britain's evil mean ogre of a Prime Minister, David Cameron, has crushed the hopes of crony socialist eco-kooks depending on government subsidies for their "clean energy" scams they need to feed their starving families plus widows and orphans will who freeze and die without them.

It's just so sad. Please don't let those tears come from uncontrollable laughter. The story from start to finish is pure 24-carat ROTFLMAO.

There are a number of enlightening stories from Europe. In progressive uber-tolerant Holland, Moslem "refugees" are being welcomed with pig's heads. The Euroweenie capital of Sweden can't stand the Moslem invasion anymore, and is closing its doors to "migrants." There are limits to even libtard lunacy.

Germany's police chief (Bundesschriftführer) Rüdiger Seidenspinner has publicly denounced the crime wave caused by Moslem "refugees" being ignored by both the German press and the courts.

Now take a look at this Daily Mail photo-essay on anti-Islamist protests in France and Germany. Scroll down to the pics of the protests in Dresden and you'll notice a flag being waved by PEGIDA members.

It's the Josef Wirmer Flag of the German Resistance to Hitler. The flag of those who tried to assassinate Hitler on July 20, 1944. It is the ultimate expression of German Anti-Nazism now embraced by Germans against the Merkel-led Moslem invasion of their country. I'd be worried if I were Merkel.

Lastly, there's this touching story: Migrants face plummeting temperatures as snow sweeps across Europe amid fears refugees could freeze to death.

What did these people expect? Central Europe is an ice box in winter, it's on the same latitude as Labrador in Canada. Just to give you an idea of how far north Europe is: New York City is south of Rome, Italy. You can win many a bar bet with that.

These "refugees" expecting European taxpayers to house, clothe, feed, and healthcare them for free need to be packed off to Saudi Arabia's Mina Tent City, capable of housing 3 million Moslems in air-conditioned comfort. Moslems need to take care of their own – or be forced to.

Back home, the HFR would like to commend Congressman Dana Rohrabacher for endorsing Ted Cruz for President. The HFR has also come to the conclusion that Cruz stands head and shoulders above any other presidential candidate.

The HFR extends further commendation to Rohrabacher for his No Social Security for Illegal Immigrants Act (HR 1716), Stop Birth Tourism Act (HR 2484), and most especially for his Save Christians from Genocide Act (HR 4017) introduced last week (11/16). Its purpose is to give expedited consideration to Christians and Yazidis fleeing Moslem persecution in Iraq, Syria, Pakistan, Iran, and Libya.

Who else could be the HFR Hero of the Week but Mike Jolley, Sheriff of Harris County, Georgia, who erected this Welcome sign outside his offices on Tuesday (11/24). He paid for it with his own money, but local citizens promptly send him reimbursements. Happy Thanksgiving and Merry Christmas, Sheriff Mike!

That's a wrap, folks. One reminder. We only have room for one more couple on Hidden India. Don't pass up experiencing the India you've always dreamed of. I won't repeat it as there's always another adventure in the world. So Carpe diem!

Ps: Okay, so what will Vladimir "Eastwood" Putin do? This afternoon, Erdogan hubristically warned Putin "not to play with fire". It's Erdogan who's playing with fire of course. Putin will start supporting the Kurds in Turkey to the hilt and simply break Turkey apart. And don't be at all surprised if "ISIS" – i.e. Spetsnaz commandos – manages to end up with Erdogan's head in a sack.
