SKYE'S LINKS 11/03/22

How about a bit of good news to start the links today? Sanity is returning to energy plans in Poland. Westinghouse has been tapped for Poland's first production of nuclear energy, built on the Pomeranian Coast of the Baltic Sea. It's a beautiful place as you can see, where it will be supplying beautifully clean energy for the Polish people.

Poland chooses US to build its first nuclear power plant

But wait! There's more! Poland is ordering the construction of a second nuke power plant, this one built by South Korea. The US one is up on the northwest Baltic coast. The Korean one is to be in the south-center not far from the gigantic Belchatów brown coal mines – with several square miles of open pit mining – adjacent to its coal-fired power plant. Belchatów has reserves of 2 billion tons of lignite coal. Will the Korean nuke plant replace it or add to Poland's energy sources? Whichever, Poland plans to have 0% dependence on energy from Russia.

South Korea May Build Nuclear Plant for Poland

And sanity may be returning to Germany, too. “It would be rather irresponsible to avoid fracking for ideological reasons,” Christian Lindner, Germany’s Federal Finance Minister says. Meaning, “Screw your climate change agenda, we need to stay warm in the winter!”

Govt Minister Demands Fracking Legalized to Boost German Gas Supply

Sanity is seeping back into CEOs: 59% say that they are pausing or cutting back on their ESG activities:

More sanity and courage, this time from Alberta. Alberta dumps the WEF. Keep your eye on this lady, she is terrific. Can’t wait to see Julius’ posts on her in the Forum!

Fighting against medical censorship. “Never let a crisis go to waste as a means to grossly expand governmental control over people’s lives” is the Left’s mantra – and that’s just what they’re doing now. Note the author is a practicing psychiatric physician.

We are living in a matrix of censorship that goes far beyond the actions of individual social network websites. Honest - and alarmed - liberal journalist Glenn Greenwald lifts the lid of the vast censorship machine that has tentacles everywhere. A very important “must-read.”

Remember the First Amendment case that I urged you to follow in Skye’s Links last week? To jog your memory, I attached this unforgettable photo to it:

Now you remember, right? I said: “Of truly lasting significant import, this case has the potential to become a landmark decision that subjects Facebook, Twitter, Google, and other Big Tech social media companies to the First Amendment. Keep your eyes on this one!” Federal Judge Orders Fauci, White House to Testify on COVID-19 Big Tech Collusion.

Well, this week are reports from leaked documents that provide clear evidence that Google and the social media were acting as government agents and hence making themselves subject to the First Amendment. Vijaya Gadde (pictured above) and other perps may be singing like an opera of canaries to stay out of the slammer.
